Support Vector Machine

SVM is a supervised ML model. It is mainly used for classification, but can be used for regression also.

The objective of SVM algorithm is to find a hyperplane that has the maximum distance (margin) between data points of both classes.